Any Man May Easily Regain

one which is infinite in its power for good.

This self-same VITALTTY, this builder of manhood and manly vigor, may easily be regained, and I will tell you how.

Have you ever stopped to consider that it is this VITAL FURGE which makes rugged men the teal men that they are? It is this same MAN FORCE which is behind every great achievement in the world today, which gives the flower of our army and navy the courage to meet and face death unflinchingly, which gives the rough and rugged man of the pialms that compelling power to rescue at all odds a loved one from some great peril, as our illustration here portrays, and it is this self-same, identical VITAL VIGOR which I must impart to you, reader, if you are not the man you should be.

Therefore, if I give you new vitality, I make you young again and keep you feeling young the balance of your days. By increasing your vital supply, I soon have you answering "Simply feeling fine," to your friends morning greetings, while they in their turn will secretly marvel at the wondrous change for the better which has come over you. A thoroughly vital maniy man is the greatest inspiration in the world; his power and fascination are felt by all women and all men alike who are near him. Nothing but death can conquer the giant of atrength and manly vigor. On the other hand, how different with the half-man the neurasthemic degenerate, who is burning up his vitality in dissipation and excesses! Is there any sight more pitiable, more repellant to one's sense of decency, than the weakling who deliberately kills his manhood and self-respect by acts of wiful debauchery? Such a man has neither sympathy nor can be profit by what of wisdom I can impart. Therefore, if I give you new vi-make a fair, square light for the return of his lost vitality and lost manhood, who will promise faithfully and honestly to discontinue manbood, who will promise faithfully and honestly to discontinue any debasing practices or excesses he may be indusing, who will help me thus by helping himself to such, no matter how dependent he may be no matter how dependent he may be, no matter how dependent in the world. Just lead a decent man's life, my friend, and then increase your VITALITY. All else will come.

I make and distribute a vitalizing appliance which I call a HEALTH BELT. I do not want you to get one of these HEALTH BELTS now not fomorrow nor next week, for that matter, but first wish you to write for or call and get one of my little free books. I want you to thus have my whole story of this subject of VITALITY, so that you may judge for yourself. My HEALTH BELT, with suspensory attachment, is a complete freatment in itself, that is, you place it comfortably around your walst tights when you go to bed and wear it all the time when you are asleep. The vitality which it produces and sends into your system hour after hour is felt as it flows in. There is no shock, but merely a pleasant, warm, southing sensution which induces a sound, refreshing sleep. Weak back often disappears at once, and a better feeling is immediately experienced. Two or three months wear is usually sufficient. The cost is nominal. With special attachments, my HEALTH BELT is used by women as well as men for rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, belonder disappears. by women as well as men for rheu-matism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders, etc.

Integrity Of United States Supreme Court Justices Is Never Questioned

garded as the best example of the supremacy of justics in Europe, but the highest English occupant of the bench must be removed by the king upon the request of parliament. A justice of the supreme court of the United States can be removed for no other cause than "high erimes and misdemeanors," which have never been charged against any justice except Samuel Chase, who was impeached in 1804, but who was acquitted by the senate. His impeachment grew out of political opinions held and expressed by him, and did not involve the integrity of the man. An example of how a justice of the supreme court may continue in power, even after the whole country has turned its back upon him, is afforded by the experience of chief justice. Boger B. Taney, who handed down the Dred Scott decision, which in effect nationalized slavery. Taney continued to act as chief justice, even through the administration of president Lincoln, although he was disliked by the northern people as only a man can be when he holds onlying against which when he holds opinions against which people are fighting a bitter war. As ong as Charles Sumner continued in he senate of the United States a bust Tancy was refused its appropriate ce in the supreme court room.

Although the people have frequently omplained of decisions made by the supreme court, and have called into sestion its judgment, its wisdom, and a partisan bias, and although matters such moment that their ultimate imortanee could never be measured in oliars and cents have been decided a margin of one vote, no one ever et has called into question the ingrity of the men who constitute the grity of the men who constitute the oppression of the court is discussing the lack of unanimity hich sometimes characterizes its desions assert that it cannot be exceed that where popular and professional opinion is so nearly divided upon tonal opinion is so hearly break against the questions involved, the justices se-ected from different parties and from emote sections of the union, and shar-ng all of the infirmities and preju-

Quinn, one of the most reliable men in this section of the country, tells a snake story which he declares to be the truth, stating that the victim is in the hospital as evidence of the same.

A girl habe was recently born to a mexican family who lived in a tent and slept on the ground while engaged on the railroad. The little one gradually falled until it was barely skin and bones, and no one was able to ascertain the cause. Last Sunday night the mother was awakened by a sharp pain in her breast, and it was found that a across the corridor which leads from the house to the senate is roped off with silken cords, and the court headed by the chief justice, and followed by the others in the order of their ap-pointment, marches out of the robing while the marshal announces the court and the clerk calls out his familiar "Oyes," "Oyes," and announces that the "Oyex," "Oyex?" and amounces that the court is now in session and all persons having business before it will draw mear and give attention. The justices sit at a high desk, the chief justice in the middle, and the others to his right and left in the order of their appointment. Their robes hang in the robing room in the same order that they march in, and they sit around the consultation table in their chambers in

When the court was organized, the question gross as to how its members should be dressed Some thought they should wear the mortar board cap of a scholar, some he garb of a Roman senator, some the the garb of a Roman senator, some the attire of a priest, and others the wig and the gown of the English jurists. When Thomas Jefferson expressed his opinion on the subject he exclaimed: "For heaven's sake discard the monstrous wig which makes the English judges look like rats peeping through bunches of oakum."

May Retire at 70.

Under the law the justices of the supreme court may retire at 70. However, unless overtaken by infirmities which prevent them from rendering efficient service any longer, they pre-fer to work on. For instance, justice Harian was eligible to retire the first f June, 1903. But he has proferred to trying, he was still in harness in 1911, and had 34 years of honorable service on the bench of the supreme court behind him. He has taken part in some of the most important decisions of the court in its entire history. His 34 years of service is more than double the average service of a member of the court. There have been few occasions when the membership of the supreme court has changed so sapidly as at the present time. Today there are only three members of the beach who only three members of the beach who were there 10 years ago. This has come about largely through the numerous deaths that have occurred. Justice Shiras and justice Brown retired on account of age or ill health, but justices Brewer and Peckham and chief justice Fuller died in the harness. Jusbeauty of health.

Unfortunately, at this time of year so many women are in a weakened, run-down condition that there are few so many women are in a weakened, run-down condition that there are few to whom one can say it.

Mrs. C. Langan, 1954 Anthony ave., New York City, says in a letter: "My health began to run down two years ago, and from that time till last April i was in a badly weakened condition with little energy and poor appetite. Having heard so much about Vinol I began taking it and already i have improved so much that all my friends notice a great difference. I have entirely recovered my former strength-thanks to Vinol."

This delicious cod liver and from remedy without oil, is of the greatest value in creating strength, restoring appetite and building up the body. Pale, sickly women, overworked men, feeble old folks and delicate children all need it, and we positively guarantee Vinol to give satisfaction. Kelly & Follard, Pruggists, El Paso, Texas.

S THE head of the American judicial system, possessed of powers which enable it to pass on the constitutionality of the acts of the president, congress and the states, and invested with a permanency which makes it independent of changing public opinion, the supreme court is in many respects the most powerful factor in the American political system and the greatest judicial organization in the world.

Receiving appointment from the president, upon confirmation by the senate, the justices of the supreme court pass beyond the power of either, except under a process of impeachment, in which the house must act as grandigury and the senate as the court of trial. The fudiciary of England is regarded as the best example of the supreme court may be removed by the king upon the

The Oral Arguments.

The procedure of the supreme court in the determination of the questions involved is an interesting one. To begin with it hears the oral arguments of the attorneys in the case. An attorney who can deliver an effective speech before this court is an artist in his line. Usually the members apparently take little interest in what an attorney is saying, and to the speciarently take little interest in what an attorney is saying, and to the speciator it would seem that the attorney might just as well omit his oral argument and trust to the briefs he has previously submitted. But if anyone thinks that the court is not paying attention let him watch an attorney stray away from the points his argument is expected to cover or misquote a former decision of the court; he will at once discover that the court is taking mental note and is ready to remind ing mental note and is ready to remind the attorney of his error. Sometimes the court will hear the argument of a plaintiff in error and is persuaded that he had no cause upon his own show-plaintiff in error and is persuaded that he had no cause upon his own showing.

Under such conditions it will advise the opposing attorney that he needs to make no argument. A humorous incident of this kind occurred years ago when the famous Matt Carpenter was the attorney for the plaintiff in error in a certain case. When the opposing attorney began to answer his speech the court declared that it was unnecessary for him to speak further. The attorney was hard of hearing and did not understand the remark, when Matt Carpenter spoke up and said: "The court would rather give you the case than hear you talk." The justices are not without their sense of humor, even when on the bench. Some years ago a case involving a patent collar button was pending. While the attorney was chgaged in arguing it, one of the justices asked him if he understood him to say that "If the button fell out of a man's shirt as he was dressing and rolled under the bed, the owner could recover it without swearing." The attorney replied that no such button was possible of invention.

After a case is argued in the supreme court, its members take the printed briefs to their homes and read them. There are a large number of these briefs to be read, and often a single case involves a stupendous amount of study if the members of the court are to become perfectly familiar with it.—Copyright, 1911, by Frederic J. Haskin.

The cure of Henry J. Goldstein, 14 Barton Street, Boston, Mass., is anothvictory by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine has succeeded in many cases where others have utterly falled. Mr. Goldstein says: "I suf-fered from rheumatism five years, it hept me from business and caused ex-cruciating pain. My knees would be-come as stiff as steel. I tried many medicines without relief, then took Hood's Sarsaparilla, soon felt much better, and now consider myself en-tirely cured. I recommend Hood's."
